

January News

Library News
2016

Winter Clothing Drive

1. Marla and I have collaborated again this year to conduct another research project. This year our focus was on social studies and communities. Through our work, we researched communities and how community members work together to solve problems. As a result, students have decided to run a winter clothing drive to collect new hats, gloves, mittens and blankets for babies and toddlers and preschoolers here in the Lehigh Valley. Starting Monday, January 11th students may drop off those items in the lobby. There will be marked collection bins around the "Winter Tree." All donations will be going to Children's Communities Services of the Lehigh Valley. Parents letters will be sent home this week, in addition to afternoon announcements. Thank you in advance for supporting our project! Please let us know if you have any questions.
2. If you are interested in collaborating with the library just let me know what subject or topic you would like, and we can schedule a time to meet.

New Year....New Books!
Come check out our New Book Table to read the latest library additions.

Book News

Our library circulation system is undergoing an overhaul this month. As a result, we will have some interruptions to our regular book circulation. Students should return books as usual. We will be limiting student check out and may have to work the old-fashioned way, by writing down bar-codes! Yikes!

It will not be possible for students or teachers to access our online catalog during this time.

Finally, this will not effect your ability to check-out from our library, but may limit inner district loans for a few days.

Thank you for your patience. We hope to be back up and running quickly.